A local Irish-American string band has timed the release of its debut CD for St. Patrick's Day. Odd Legged Jenny will celebrate the event with friends and fans at Fellini's #9 in Charlottesville March 17th. The music gets underway at about 6:30.

Featuring fluid fiddle, haunting vocals, driving guitar and bass Odd Legged Jenny serves up a mix of Irish jigs reels and songs with an equal compliment of rural American and Old Time music. The self-titled CD unites these closely related musical traditions.

Odd Legged Jenny consists of Alex Caton on fiddle, backing vocals and occasional rhythm guitar; Phil Audibert on vocals, guitar and occasional harmonica; and Lew Burrus on standup and electric bass.

And then there's Jenny herself... a wooden stool that fiddler, Alex Caton, brings to all the band's gigs. The stool stands perfectly straight on four legs, but one leg is turned differently than the other three. On the under side of the seat Alex's father carved "odd legged jenny."
